27/7/04 Pension Claims of this kind are generally decided by the Circumstances existing at the time the Claims arose. In this case, at the time the Constable died his Eldest Son was alive & was the first Claimant under 382 M.S.R. His Subsequent death is an event which does not alter the original Circumstances. However, an extraordinary pension is given expressly for the support of the family, first may consider whether if a pension is granted for some years such pension ceases before from the expiry of the term fixed if it is necessary to continue

Draft

It is in the name of the next Claimant under art 382-

Please see Clause (d) art-382-which lays down that no transfer of the pension to another member is permitted -

As no Claim has been preferred there is no occasion to consider this question at all- All that is now requested is sanction to the payment arrears which may be given. Draft subd.
